INSTITUTIONAL PROFILE

Established in 1841, Fordham University is the oldest Catholic and Jesuit university in the northeastern United States. Fordham enrolls approximately 15,300 students from more than 65 countries, and is composed of ten constituent colleges, four of which are undergraduate, and six are postgraduate. The university spans three campuses in southern New York, as well as an abroad center in London, and field offices in Spain and South Africa.

PROJECT DESCRIPTION

One key element of Fordham University's digital transformation strategy was the alignment and leveraging of real-time data (smartphones, connected devices, mobile commerce) with modern technologies (cloud, AI, etc.). These associated projects were to provide Fordham the agility to make data driven decisions to improve efficiencies and enhance services for students, faculty, and staff.

These strategic projects required significant skilled technical resources, and the university found it challenging to free up current resources due to the competitive landscape. Instead of delaying important projects, the university partnered with Strata Information Group to provide staff augmentation to support their specific IT needs.
